

AVERAGE CIRCULATION
OVER
300,000
PER DAY.

PRICE ONE CENT.

LAST EDITION. BROILS A WHOLE CITY.

Thermometers Register 117 Degrees in the Sun This Morning.

All the Heat Records for June Beaten
To-Day.

Brooklyn Reports the First Death—
Eight Others Overcome.

With the same calm assurance that sustains an exposed spook medium First-Class Weather Observer Dunn insisted this morning that this was a cool summer and apologized for a delay in his weather report on the ground that two of his assistants, S.M. Handford and Francis Long, were detained from duty—knocked out by the heat!

The Bergant explained that Long was one of the Greedy party of Arctic explorers, and that while he stood weather 50 degrees below zero in the frozen seas that on excursion, he couldn't stand a little bit of warm weather, and slept the year round with his feet out of bed, to keep cool.

The weather sharp admitted, however, that those New Yorkers who thought that they had reached the furthest bounds of endurance in the 94-degree government weather at 3.30 yesterday afternoon, would have a chance to make another guess, as the heat would surely be raised to-day by Old Sol, and his partner, Hugh Midday.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

There were 78 degrees of heat recorded on the official thermometer at 8 o'clock this morning, which was eight degrees hotter than at the same hour yesterday.

The humidity was 75 per cent., and an eight-mile draught from the southwest furnace didn't help much to cool the air.

Down on the street at Hudnut's however, where this breeze didn't reach, it was four degrees hotter.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

At 10 o'clock Sergt. Dunn's thermometer had reached 88 degrees, and Hudnut's was at 85.

But even these figures do not show all that the sweltering New Yorker has to suffer to-day. Let him, by the necessity of his business, walk two blocks on the sunny side of the street, which would be done in about three minutes, and his blood will be heated to 100 degrees, as was demonstrated by the second-hand thermometer in the sun for three minutes.

In fifteen minutes the spirit in the tube rose to 117 degrees, and that is a fair showing of what the workmen excavating in Broadway suffer under to-day.

newboy are the only comfortable citizens to-day.

The record at Hudnut's for June 16, 1890, and for to-day is as follows:

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

The heat is still intense in Western Pennsylvania and along the lower lakes. Pittsburgh was the hottest spot in America, having 86 degrees of heat at 8 o'clock this morning; at Erie, 78; at Buffalo, 72; Chicago, 74; Albany and St. Louis, 70; Philadelphia and Washington, 78 degrees.

Boston and Calcutta were equal on the weather question, each having 84 degrees of heat.

The records show the average temperature of June 16 for the past fifteen years to have been 69-74 degrees. It has not been nor is it likely to be within eight degrees as low as this at any time to-day.

At noon the thermometer at Perry's marked 88 1/2 degrees.

SUBURBAN DAY.

Track, Weather and Horses in Perfect Order for the Great Race.

Forty Thousand Spectators Expected to Witness the Struggle.

Tenny is the Favorite, but Many Back Tea Tray and Riley.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, June 16.—The course over which the great Suburban Handicap will be run, about 4 o'clock this afternoon is more beautiful than ever. The splendid stretches of green lawn look fresh and cool, and the forests surrounding the place cast a shade that tempts one to abandon the betting ring and grand stand and rest under the foliage. The flower-beds are as well kept as ever, and beautiful exotics of every kind delight the eye and lend a delightful fragrance to the air.

The new grand stand, so-called, is imposing and massive. It cannot be called strictly new, for the only change is the addition of a roof upon which seats were placed, affording a splendid view of the track at every point, and of the surrounding country as well.

This race will truly be the turf event of the year. The finest thoroughbreds in the country are named to go, and when the little red flag flashes the starting signal, probably 80,000 eyes on the grand stand and the lawns will follow the struggles of these magnificent animals.

The day couldn't be more perfect, save that it is a trifle too warm. The sky is clear and devoid of clouds and a gentle breeze scurries through the grand stand in a fashion most grateful to the perspiring spectator.

One expects discomfort on suburban day. In many respects it can be likened to Derby day in England. People will visit the race track this afternoon who never go on any other occasion. Business will be to a great extent suspended, so far as the heads of firms go, for all will want to see the great race of the year.

There will in all probability be nearly 40,000 people present to witness this year's Suburban, and from all present indications no one will regret it.

Every eye at the track this morning seemed to take in for granted that Col. D. F. Fulster would win with Tenny.

The wayback seems to be far outlaced the others that it seems like a foregone conclusion that he will win.

Why, said a shrewd turfman this morning, "how can you be sure it is any other way? In the Suburban Handicap he beat all these horses. Those that were beaten then have since won stakes, and have been penalized with several more pounds. Why should they now have any more chance of beating Tenny than they had in the Brooklyn Handicap?"

This seems a logical way of reasoning, but the race, and nearly every one seemed to figure it out similarly.

Tenny is in the best possible condition. His trainer, Donovan, said this morning: "If he is beaten there can be no excuse for it. He is a shrewd man, and he is sure that the race will be run in 2:07 or better."

Tea Tray has not raced since the Brooklyn Handicap, and therefore has incurred no weight penalties. He is in beautiful form, and it is reported here this morning that Snapper Carson will pilot him.

There is another division of turfmen who favor Riley. They saw him carry 130 pounds yesterday and gallop the distance in 2:10. This is a trial worth remembering, and only a few saw him do it.

Riley is a champion, and it is reported here this morning that he is in perfect shape, and he says he is sure that the race will be run in 2:07 or better.

Matt Allen is advising his friends to place small bets on Demuth, who he says has a great chance. He thinks Bergen will ride him, and he tells his friends to remember the great race that Demuth ran last year, and especially the race in which Firenze outlasted him by a head.

Major Demuth is figured out as having a chance. His owner says that he will run the first mile in 1:40 or better, and will come very near killing off the rest of the field.

It is reported that Michael Cassius and English Lady will be withdrawn. Michael Dwyer thinks Banquet is at present better than Raeland, and will rely on the former.

Hamilton will be in the saddle. Cassius will not go, because Diablo has shown himself to be the better of the Campbell pair. Taral will pilot Diablo.

Green Morris argues that Judge Morrow is "in it," and he believes that his colt never liked the up and down hill course at Morris Park.

This accounts in a measure for the poor performance of the horse at the recent meeting at Westchester.

Of the other entries but little can be said, as but little is known of them. Isaac Lewis, with Taylor up, looks dangerous at 95 pounds, but he is untried.

Young Seigel is employed in Meester's sausage factory at 125 Harrison avenue. Muskar went into the place last night and begged for the price of a drink, which was refused, the boy calling him a hard name.

Muskar became angry and threw a sausage pie in the face of the waiter, and then he was taken to the police station.

Seigel then grabbed up the pie and threw it with great force at the waiter, and then he was taken to the police station.

An ambulance surgeon exerted all his strength in vain to save the life of the young man, when the blood spurted in a stream of foam. Seigel was subsequently arrested.

"God Bless the Prince," Hissed by an Audience in Wales.

(BY CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.)

LONDON, June 16.—Henry M. Stanley lectured at Carnarvon last evening.

Previous to the lecture the orchestra played "God Bless the Prince of Wales," and was hissed by the audience.

Clarkin Gets Off Easy.

Lawyer Philip J. Clarkin, who was ordered to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt, appeared before Judge Lawrence to-day and was purged of misconduct.

HIS MURDER PROVEN.

James Kelly's Skull Was Split Open by a Striker's Club.

Bellevue Doctors Said He Was a Victim of Alcoholism.

Policeman Seriously Hurt While Chasing the Murderer.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—The most critical campaign in the history of Ohio politics opened to-day, when the gavel fell on one of the largest and most enthusiastic Republican State conventions the Buckeye Commonwealth has ever known.

The importance of the result of this campaign, not only to the State but to the Nation, is fully realized. With the election of Gov. Campbell to the Governorial chair, two years ago, the Democrats won a most decisive victory in the Buckeye State; and the struggle which the Republicans have now begun to win out of their party will only be equaled by the herculean efforts which the Democracy of the State and Nation will exert to retain the advantage already won in this quinquennial State.

It is felt that as Ohio goes this year so it will very probably go in the Presidential election of 1900.

The nomination of William McKinley, ex-Congressman and author of the Tariff law, to the office of Governor has been a foregone conclusion for some weeks.

The renomination by the Democrats of Gov. James R. Campbell for another term is also predicted as a foregone conclusion.

For some days many of his admirers have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

It is reported that the Republicans have been insisting that the eminently proper thing to do was to select Senator John Sherman as temporary chairman of the Convention. Right here the first serious trouble arose. The Democrats were suddenly warned that the Republicans had a candidate in the person of Sherman in the United States Senate, and that it would not be complying with the constitution to have him as chairman.

McKINLEY, SURE.

No Trouble Over That Matter for the Ohio Republicans.

Sherman Wants the Senatorship Only on Voluntary Tender.

Convention at Columbus to Be Carried Over Two Days.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—The most critical campaign in the history of Ohio politics opened to-day, when the gavel fell on one of the largest and most enthusiastic Republican State conventions the Buckeye Commonwealth has ever known.

The importance of the result of this campaign, not only to the State but to the Nation, is fully realized. With the election of Gov. Campbell to the Governorial chair, two years ago, the Democrats won a most decisive victory in the Buckeye State; and the struggle which the Republicans have now begun to win